Massive New Construction at the Port of Baltimore

The Port of Baltimore is growing. Come hear the details from Mark Montgomery, President of Ports America Baltimore. As a special guest, Congresswoman Helen Delich Bentley, the long-time advocate for the Port, will make introductory remarks. Opportunity presents itself—don't miss it!

In a deal that will produce up to 3,000 construction jobs, Ports America and the Maryland Port Administration signed a 50-year lease for the Seagirt Marine Terminal that will require Ports America to complete a $106 million project to build a 50-foot berth to accommodate larger ships at Seagirt. The project is vital in keeping the port competitive with others on the East Coast because larger ships will begin calling from Asia once the Panama Canal is widened in 2014. Ports America the largest terminal operator and stevedore in the United States, at more than 80 locations in 42 ports. At the Port of Baltimore, Ports America operates the Dundalk Marine Terminal, Seagirt Marine Terminal, and 3 piers at the North Locust Point Terminal.
